

Adventures in Outdoor Painting

Children's Watercolor Classes Summer 2011

Wednesdays: 12:30-2:00pm
July 13, 27
August 3, 10

$5-children of members
$10-children of non-members

Children Ages 8 to 14 are invited to join us for an outdoor watercolor class at the Hammond Museum's pond and Japanese stroll garden. Imagine listening to and painting the frogs in the pond or the lily pads, or the many varieties and colors of trees, or the tea house as you enter the garden.

Instructor Sally Aldrich is a painter as well as art teacher, who taught art in Pleasantville on all levels: kindergarten through high school.

Students should have a sketchbook for drawing and some nice pencils, as well as a watercolor pad of a good size, some flat as well as pointed paint brushes, and either a paint box or tubes of different blues, cadmium yellow and red, alizarin crimson, paynes grey, and burnt sienna. Join us and enjoy!
